GENERAL CHAIRMAN
NATIONAL SOCIALIST AMERICAN LABOR PARTY

STATEMENT COMMEMORATING ADOLF HITLER'S
120TH BIRTHDAY AND THE 1ST ANNIVERSARY OF THE NSALP

Greetings National Socialists and Patriots:

As we gather together to commemorate the 120th Birthday of Adolf Hitler, there is significance this year.

For the first time since 1945, an organized National Socialist Political Party has organized official events across a Nation to commemorate our first Leader's Birthday.

You, my fellow Comrades have made this possible. From New York to California, and from Minnesota, to Texas American National Socialists will be holding events in celebration of National Socialist heritage.

Just 12 short months ago, what is now the National Socialist American Labor Party, was nothing but a concept in the minds of five dedicated National Socialists who had:

Grown tired of the decline of our Nation
Grown tired of the decline and decadence of our Culture
Grown tired of and were revolted at the complete breakdown of our social structure
Grown tired of the foreign jewish influence and control over our once great America
Grown tired of watching hard working Americans suffer at the hands of a plutocratic system of greed and corruption.

Grown tired of the moral corruption of our children, our women and our families under the disguise of “social progress” that has resulted in disease, illegitimacy, miscegenation, all of which equals social and racial genocide cleverly perpetrated by the jews and their useful idiot apologist agents.

Twelve months ago, the National Socialist American Labor Party formed and we said NO.....

We said we would stand up and not allow our Nation and people to be devolved into a Latin-Afro-Third World Nation void of Culture, Beauty, and distinction and populated by a race of mix breed mongrels that have no history or self identity with the jews pulling the strings.

We will not stand by quietly and allow our Children to be relegated to history and America to go the way of Zimbabwe.

We will no longer cede one inch of ground to Marxist political correctness that says we must be ashamed.

We will never take one step back, nor be intimidated, nor shy away from standing up for our People, our Nation, our Families, our Faith, and NOR OUR BELIEFS.

My fellow National Socialist Comrades.....

The storm is coming, the corrupt capitalist economic house of cards, so enjoyed by jew bankers and their little prostitute helpers is rapidly falling and try as they might, all the jews horses and all the jews men cannot put the broken humpty dumpty system back together again, WE WILL NOT LET THEM, we will not be enslaved again, NOR WILL WE ALLOW OUR CHILDREN TO BE ENSLAVED BY A JEWISH PLUTOCRATIC SYSTEM OF CORRUPT MORAL AND ECONOMIC DECADENCE.

We all know what the problems are, We American National Socialists love our Nation and we love our People. We oppose and hate the foreign influences and corruption that has stolen our peoples government, to that end we commit ourselves to providing our people with new political solutions, new government solutions and a jew free economy that will allow our people to grow and prosper without the shackles of economic slavery and economic insecurity.

Let us, as we celebrate Adolf Hitler’s 120th Birthday and the 1st Birthday of the NSALP, recommit ourselves to National Socialist Political Action.

This means we ALL must take our efforts to the next level.

National Socialist Political Action like our Southeast Regional Leader, who just this week in a single day handed out 1000 NSALP Fliers.

We are advancing, just this week we announced the forming of five additional State Districts in Washington State, Maryland, Minnesota, Nevada, and Florida.

We will, within a few weeks complete the acquisition of a major internet Web Site and forum thus over doubling our outreach efforts.

There is far more to be done, our tasks and challenges and most of all enemies are daunting.

As one of our founders once said:

“It is time for all good men to come to the aid of their Country”

For those of you, like me, who have children, I challenge you to take just two minutes and gaze into the eyes of your children and ask yourself, what kind of America do I want for my Children, then ask yourself one more question, what will America become, if I do nothing?

Our very own Founding Fathers declared in our Declaration of Independence:

“that whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive ... it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government...”

Comrades, I close this message as I close all others.....

The time is yours. What happens with it depends on You.”

NATIONAL SOCIALIST AMERICAN LABOR PARTY CONDEMNS DEPT. OF HOMELAND SECURITY REPORT AND CALLS ON SECRETARY NAPOLITANO TO RESIGN

Report targets Veterans, and all Patriotic Americans who oppose government policies on issues such as Abortion, the 2nd Amendment, Taxes and paints Political Parties as "hate groups" with a broad brush"... So much for our Constitution and the Freedoms many have fought and died for.

The Dept of Homeland Security issued a Report entitled, "Right-wing Extremism" (see Link to Report below). In that Report, the Dept of Homeland Security identifies everyday Americans who oppose abortion, as right wing extremists and a potential terrorists threat, the Report identifies everyday Americans who oppose excessive taxation, as right wing extremists and potential terrorists, the Report says that everyday Americans who believe that the federal government is too large and has eroded our Civil Liberties, are right wing extremists and are potential terrorists.

Finally, the Report, in a outrage that should send Americans into the streets in protest, the Report says that returning American Veterans, our Hero's who have shed their blood for our Nation, are potential terrorists. At the same time the same Secretary of Homeland Security who approved this Report, has changed the classification of Middle East terrorists, who did indeed attack the United States and kill 3000, and now calls terrorist acts by Islamic Terrorists, "Man Made Disasters".

Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano issues a Report that refers to our Veterans as potential Terrorists, but refers to real Terrorists who actually attacks America as "Man Made Disasters". Secretary Napolitano has her priorities and enemies reversed. Secretary Napolitano is unfit to serve the American people and should resign at once.

RAPED AND MURDERED BY THE COMMUNIST
SOVIET RED ARMY IN GERMANY IN 1945

As the Communist Red Army swept into eastern Germany in 1945, over 2 million German women, young girls, and old women were gang raped, sometimes by as many as 20 to 40 Red Army swine for hours at a time and murdered by the so called liberator, the allies of the United States and Great Britain.

Many of these women and girls were mutilated as well, their breasts cut off with knives or their bodies defaced.

Many of the women, unwilling to cope with the shame and torment committed suicide, often mother and daughter together, after having both been ravaged by Russian vermin.

There has been no revisiting of history for these victims, no remembrances, no reparations, and no memorials. These brave women have lived with this since 1945.

US Envoy Writes of Israeli Threats

By Barbara Crossette

March 31, 2009

In the wake of the accusation by Chas Freeman that his nomination to lead the National Intelligence Council was derailed by an "Israeli lobby," a forthcoming memoir by another distinguished ambassador adds stunning new charges to the debate. The ambassador, John Gunther Dean, writes that over the years he not only came under pressure from pro-Israeli groups and officials in Washington but also was the target of an Israeli-inspired assassination attempt in 1980 in Lebanon, where he had opened links to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Dean's suspicions that Israeli agents may have also been involved in the mysterious plane crash in 1988 that killed Pakistan's president, General Mohammed Zia ul Haq, led finally to a decision in Washington to declare him mentally unfit, which forced his resignation from the foreign service after a thirty-year career. After he left public service, he was rehabilitated by the State Department, given a distinguished service medal and eventually encouraged to write his memoirs. Now 82, Dean sees the subsequent positive attention he has received as proof that the insanity charge (he calls it Stalinist) was phony, a supposition later confirmed by a former head of the department's medical service.

Dean, whose memoir is titled Danger Zones: A Diplomat's Fight for America's Interests, was American ambassador in Lebanon in August 1980 when a three-car convoy carrying him and his family was attacked near Beirut.

"I was the target of an assassination attempt by terrorists using automatic rifles and antitank weapons that had been made in the United States and shipped to Israel," he wrote. "Weapons financed and given by the United States to Israel were used in an attempt to kill an American diplomat!" After the event, conspiracy theories abounded in the Middle East about who could have planned the attack, and why. Lebanon was a dangerously factionalized country.

The State Department investigated, Dean said, but he was never told what the conclusion was. He wrote that he "worked the telephone for three weeks" and met only official silence in Washington. By then Dean had learned from weapons experts in the United States and Lebanon that the guns and ammunition used in the attack had been given by Israelis to a Christian militia allied with them.

"I know as surely as I know anything that Mossad, the Israeli intelligence agency, was somehow involved in the attack," Dean wrote, describing how he had been under sharp criticism from Israeli politicians and media for his contacts with Palestinians. "Undoubtedly using a proxy, our ally Israel had tried to kill me." Dean's memoir, to be published in May for the Association for Diplomatic Studies and Training Memoir Series by New Academia Publishing under its Vellum imprint has been read and approved for publication by the State Department with only very minor changes, none affecting Dean's major points. Its underlying theme is that American diplomacy should be pursued in American interests, not those of another country, however friendly. A Jew whose family fled the Holocaust, Dean resented what he saw as an assumption, including by some in Congress, that he would promote Israel's interests in his ambassadorial work.

Dean, a fluent French speaker who began his long diplomatic career opening American missions in newly independent West African nations in the early 1960s, served later in Vietnam (where he described himself as a "loyal dissenter") and was ambassador in Cambodia (where he carried out the American flag as the Khmer Rouge advanced), Denmark, Lebanon, Thailand (where Chas Freeman was his deputy) and India. He takes credit for averting bloodshed in Laos in the 1970s by negotiating a coalition government shared by communist and noncommunist parties.

He was sometimes a disputatious diplomat not afraid to contradict superiors, and he often took--and still holds--contrarian views. He always believed, for example, that the United States should have attempted to negotiate with the Khmer Rouge rather than let the country be overrun by their brutal horror.

As ambassador in India in the 1980s he supported then-Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's policy of seeking some kind of neutral coalition in Afghanistan that would keep the American- and Pakistani-armed mujahedeen from establishing a fundamentalist Islamic state. For several years after the Soviet withdrawal, India continued to back Najibullah, a thuggish communist security chief whom the retreating Soviet troops left behind. After the mujahedeen moved toward Kabul, Najibullah refused a United Nations offer of safe passage to India. He was slaughtered and left hanging on a lamppost.

It was in the midst of this Soviet endgame in Afghanistan that Dean fell afoul of the State Department for the last time. After the death of General Zia in August 1988, in a plane crash that also killed the American ambassador in Pakistan, Arnold Raphel, Dean was told in New Delhi by high-ranking officials that Mossad was a possible instigator of the accident, in which the plane's pilot and co-pilot were apparently disabled or otherwise lost control. There was also some suspicion that elements of India's Research and Analysis Wing, its equivalent of the CIA, may have played a part. India and Israel were alarmed by Pakistan's work on a nuclear weapon--the "Islamic bomb."

Dean was so concerned about these reports, and the attempt by the State Department to block a full FBI investigation of the crash in Pakistan, that he decided to return to Washington for direct consultations. Instead of the meetings he was promised, he was told his service in India was over. He was sent into virtual house arrest in Switzerland at a home belonging to the family of his French wife, Martine Duphenieux. Six weeks later, he was allowed to return to New Delhi to pack his belongings and return to Washington, where he resigned.

Suddenly his health record was cleared and his security clearance restored. He was presented with the Distinguished Service Award and received a warm letter of praise from Secretary of State George Shultz. "Years later," he wrote in his memoir, "I learned who had ordered the bogus diagnosis of mental incapacity against me. It was the same man who had so effusively praised me once I was gone--George Shultz."

Asked in a telephone conversation last week from his home in Paris why Shultz had done this to him, Dean would say only, "He was forced to."

The New York Attorney General, today charged the former chairman of GMAC Financial Services, and Leader of NY Modern Orthodox Jewish Community charged with civil fraud

Susan Thompson

Ezra Merkin, a money manager and leading member of New York's Modern Orthodox Jewish community, has been accused of channeling $2.4 billion of clients' money into Bernard Madoff's Ponzi scheme.

Andrew Cuomo, the New York Attorney General, today charged the managing partner of Gabriel Capital Group and former GMAC Financial Services chairman with civil fraud. Mr. Cuomo alleged that Mr. Merkin: "profited enormously from Madoff's scheme, reaping huge commissions while investors lost all their money."

The complaint, filed in New York State Supreme Court, said investors, including several prominent charities and non-profit organizations, entrusted their investments to Merkin. The hedge fund manager then steered client money to Madoff without their permission, in exchange for $470 million in fees, Mr. Cuomo contends.

Mr. Merkin's three funds are Ascot Partners LP with Ascot Fund Ltd, Gabriel Capital Corp and Ariel Fund Ltd.

Mr. Cuomo does not allege that Mr. Merkin was aware of Madoff's scheme.

Known as "the Rabbi" within the wealthy Modern Orthodox community, Mr. Merkin gave Madoff access to a lucrative number of charities, schools and wealthy synagogue members. Mr. Merkin is the president of the Fifth Avenue synagogue - the richest of its kind in America.

While Mr. Madoff is Jewish, he never visited the Fifth Avenue Synagogue himself.

Several investors have already sued him, including New York University, which claimed it had lost at least $24 million as a result of investing with Madoff via Mr. Merkin's Ascot Partners fund.

Mr. Cuomo launched his investigation into Mr. Merkin in January,

Andrew Levander, the lawyer for Mr. Merkin, tonight denied that the money was funneled into Madoff's scheme without investors' knowledge. He also claimed that Mr. Merkin performed "extensive due diligence" on Madoff and his trading strategy but was "thwarted by the intricate, fraudulent scheme perpetrated by Madoff".

"We are disappointed that the Attorney General of the State of New York has filed this hasty and ill-conceived civil lawsuit, against which we intend to defend vigorously," Mr. Levander said. "From the outset of the Attorney General's investigation, Mr. Merkin, Gabriel Capital Corporation, and the funds they manage have provided their full cooperation, answering all questions and producing hundreds of thousands of documents.

He added: "The evidence shows that this lawsuit is without merit. Contrary to the Attorney General's allegation, investors in the Ascot Funds were well aware that the money was being invested with Madoff. Furthermore, investors in all of the Funds expressly authorized Mr. Merkin to allocate assets to third party managers such as Madoff, without giving them notice or obtaining their consent.

"Mr. Merkin performed extensive due diligence on Madoff and his trading strategy, and in addition arranged meetings with Madoff for many investors to perform their own due diligence. Unfortunately, Mr. Merkin's due diligence, just like the detailed investigations performed by countless others, including regulators, was thwarted by the intricate, fraudulent scheme perpetrated by Madoff," he said.

Mr. Madoff remains in the Manhattan Correctional Centre, awaiting sentencing in June on 11 criminal counts to which he pled guilty last month.

'Jerusalem Post' admits it was duped by hoaxer on report of anti-Semitism in Norway

Bruce Wolman, who reads the Norwegian press, offers this important report:

It may be difficult for Americans to believe, but a disputed Jerusalem Post article asserting that Norway is rife with anti-Semitism continues to reverberate in the Norwegian media one week after publication. In fact, the headlines have gotten larger with each passing day. Having kept silent since last Wednesday-- when it posted its third version of the story in an effort to get its facts straight-- the Jerusalem Post offered yet another, extended retraction in today's paper: In two recent news articles, The Jerusalem Post sought to report on whether Norway was a country suffering from the age-old scourge of anti-Semitism. In doing so, it stumbled, in part by dealing with members of the Jewish community it should not have believed. First among these is the Norwegian army captain David Weiss, a man who is neither an army captain nor named "David Weiss." After speaking to the 45-year-old Norwegian Jew for a March 31 article [JP's second version of the story] in which Jews reported relative tolerance but also anti-Semitism in the Scandinavian country, the Post touched off a dramatic search for the supposed army captain by local Norwegian media. When they could not find the man, some Norwegian reporters called this reporter [Haviv Rettig Gur], who supplied the cellular phone number of "Weiss." He was finally tracked down over this past weekend by a reporter from the major Norwegian daily Dagbladet. In the ensuing interview,

"Weiss" told the reporter he had just wanted to set out how he and Jews like him, experienced anti-Jewish incidents in Norway. He did not explain why he needed a false identity. The Dagbladet's revelation came too late for several other media outlets, too. "Weiss" was interviewed by the BBC and the major Norwegian daily Aftenposten before Dagbladet managed to squeeze out of him his identity was faked.

Indeed, Aftenposten's highly-respected political editor Harald Stenghelle publicly accused the military of a coverup over Weiss's identity just one day before Dagbladet's revelation. Weiss even got himself invited to the Pessah Seder of Oslo's Rabbi Yoav Melchior before finally telling the truth.

The "Weiss" incident followed an erroneous Post report that Norway's finance minister had chanted "Death to the Jews" at a demonstration in January. Such errors prompted criticism by the former MK and minister Rabbi Michael Melchior, who serves as the titular chief rabbi of Norway.

"A respected newspaper that is quoted around the world has to be extremely careful with claims of anti-Semitism. The battle against anti-Semitism is very important, not just to Jews but to civilization. There are problems out there. There are anti-Semitic phenomena and places where criticism of Israel passes the red line into anti-Semitism," said Melchior. "But you can't deal with anti-Semites if you're not very clear yourself about where the lines are drawn and where truth lies. This has to be done with extra care."

And what of the original question of anti-Semitism in Norway? In the wake of our articles, other Norwegian Jews have contacted the Post and related their experiences of living in the country. In general, they say, Norway does not suffer from widespread anti-Semitism. Norwegian Jews are an accepted and respected part of the country. But, they add, there are rare incidents of tension over their Jewishness, usually with children being teased in school or with Muslim immigrants bringing their politics into their day-to-day meetings with Jews.

The controversy began with the Jerusalem Post's slandering of the Norwegian Finance Minister, Kristin Halvorsen, saying she had led chants of "Death to the Jews!" But when the Post revised its story and named its sources, the Norwegian media attempted to seriously address the charges of anti-Semitism in their society. Much to its later regret, Norway's leading newspaper, Aftenposten, was the nation's first media to contact the local sources for the Jerusalem Post article. Aftenposten accepted the word of Erez Uriely - the self-proclaimed head of the Center against Anti-Semitism in Norway - that "David Weiss" actually was an officer in the Norwegian military. (Uriely, an Israeli living in Oslo, was the second source the Post had quoted to describe personal experiences of anti-Semitic abuse in Norway.)

Aftenposten printed its interview with Weiss last Thursday. Weiss repeated his charges of anti-Semitism and complaints about the anti-Israeli attitudes of Norwegian politicians and the media. And he explained that his intelligence work was the reason his personal info remained hidden. Only later did Aftenposten contact the Defense Ministry, which informed the paper on Saturday that there was no officer named David Weiss serving in the Norwegian military.

Suddenly the issue was no longer anti-Semitism in Norway, but whether the Norwegian military was engaged in a cover up. When Aftenposten asked the Ministry if Weiss worked for any of the intelligence agencies, the initial response "was the Ministry doesn't comment or answer questions concerning personnel in these branches of the Military."

As the story roiled among the Norwegian newspapers, the Defense Ministry regretted its initial ambiguity and released the following statement on Sunday:

Captain David Weiss does not work for the Military. We don't know who this person is. There is nobody with that name or rank in the Intelligence Services .... We have released this information because this person has invoked the authority of the Military in this case.

Aftenposten's foreign editor, Harold Stanghelle, then wrote two pieces. In one he doubted the truthfulness of the military's statements, arguing that Weiss most likely was connected to military intelligence.

In the second, though, Stanghelle returned to the main issue and severely criticized the Jerusalem Post:

Once upon a time The Jerusalem Post was an important newspaper. For all of us who had worked on-and-off in Israel, it was indispensable. The Post solidly and analytically reported all about Israeli society.

But that was long ago. It has since been overtaken by owners and staff who are firmly positioned far out on the Israeli right, and it has been a long time since one could find reliable information there.

While assailing the Post's reportage, Stanghelle praised all the Norwegian Jews who had helped to expose the falsehoods in the articles:

This has been dramatic, and there is no doubt that Norway is one of the western countries with the strongest engagement in the Mideast and clearest critiques of Israel. The reasons are complicated, but one of the many important elements is the fate of the Oslo-accords.

But there is a long distance from an active Israeli critique to something comparatively as nasty and as dangerous as anti-Semitism.

It is this that Imre Hercz [a Jewish Norwegian Holocaust survivor] realizes when he asserts to NTB that "it was incorrect to say that Norway is anti-Semitic. Most people are not anti-Semitic."

The extreme Israeli Right sees it differently. It considers nearly all criticism of Israel as synonymous with hatred of Jews. Both on ideological and tactical grounds. For if they can succeed in placing the criticisms within the stinking stall of anti-Semitism, then they have also neutered the criticism. Hence, it becomes very important for them to widen the concept of anti-Semitism itself - and to make use of it.

Is this any different from what we see in America from the very same circles? Stanghelle noted that Anne Sender, head of the Oslo Jewish Congregation, had been accused by Israeli rightists of demonizing "Jews, Rabbis and Judaism" because she dared to criticize the Israeli settlers. Even the Norwegian rabbi, Michael Melchior, faced abuse in Israel for allegedly demonizing "honest and idealistic Jews".

As for Weiss's exposure, on Sunday, Dagbladet finally sat down with the so-called David Weiss in an Oslo bar. The paper uncovered his real name, but refused to reveal it for the man's own safety. The 45 year-old Norwegian currently lives alone in an apartment in Oslo with his dog. Not yet chastened, he immediately presented the Dagbladet reporter with a fake identity card showing David Weiss to be in the elite Seals unit of the US Navy.

The impostor made it clear to Dagbladet that he had nothing to do with the Norwegian military or intelligence, and that he was sorry to have brought the military into the conflict which had been unleashed with his statements to the Post. He also confirmed he had never been an officer in any military.

Weiss explained the genesis of the falsehood: After reading the first Jerusalem Post story on anti-Semitism, he had contacted the Post and had a conversation with reporter Haviv Rettig Gur. Gur filed a revised article and related Weiss's claims of anti-Semitism. But Weiss had not considered the conversation with Gur to be an interview. Only when Aftenposten found him a few days later, "he understood things had gone out-of-control."

The Jewish Norwegian apologized to Aftenposten's editor Harald Stanghelle: "I broke out in a sweat when he went out and said that the military lied about me. It really was not my intention to make him out to be an idiot."

Stanghelle at first expressed skepticism upon learning of Dagbladet's unmasking of Weiss. But by Monday, he had to apologize to the Norwegian military for doubting them. "For Aftenposten the David Weiss case is over."

It's Easter week and most Norwegians are on vacation. That didn't stop the Norwegian Officers' Association from expressing their extreme displeasure with Stanghelle's accusations that the military lied about Weiss and often covered up about its unorthodox intelligence activities. The Paratroopers Organization also announced its annoyance with the libel. If the intention was to take the spotlight off of Israel's behavior in Gaza, the plan succeeded.

A great deal of damage has been done to Israeli-Norwegian relations over this incident. The Jerusalem Post's reputation lies in shreds in the Nordic countries. As we have seen here, broadly painting critics as anti-Semitic can cause tremendous blowback on Israel itself, but have we seen the last of such articles coming out of Israel or its friends abroad? Are the methods of the ADL and Abraham Foxman so different from the Center Against Anti-Semitism in Norway

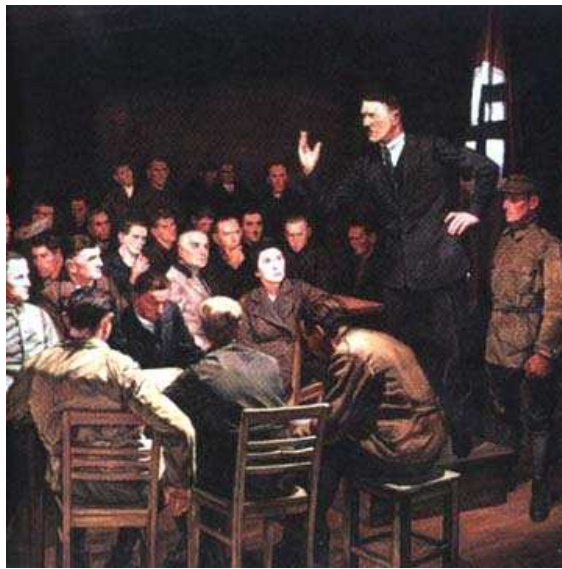

Adolf Hitler Quote for April 2009.....

The Fuhrer on the Meaning of National Socialism: “Socialist, I define from the word “social” meaning in the main “social equality”. A Socialist is one who serves the common good without giving up his individuality or personality or the product of his personal efficiency. Our adopted term “Socialist” has nothing to do with Marxian Socialism. Marxism is anti-property, true socialists is not. Marxism places no value on the individual, or individual effort, of efficiency; true Socialism values the individual and encourages him in individual efficiency, at the same time holding that his interests as an individual must be in consonance with those of the community. All great inventions, discoveries, achievements were first the product of an individual brain. It is charged against me that I am against property, that I am an atheist. Both charges are false”.

NATIONAL SOCIALIST ICON OF THE MONTH

Hanna Reitch

Hanna Reitch, left of President Kennedy in 1961 at the White House

Hanna Reitsch ( 1912 – 1979) was a German aviatrix who was once and was the only woman awarded the Iron Cross First Class and the Luftwaffe Combined Pilots-Observation Badge in Gold with Diamonds during World War II. She is perhaps best remembered for her desperate flight to reach Hitler in his bunker during the Battle of Berlin at the end of World War II. Reitsch was the first female to fly a helicopter, fly a rocket plane, fly a jet fighter and fly a glider across the Alps. She set over forty aviation altitude and endurance records during her career, both before and after WWII, and several of her international gliding records are still standing to this day. During the mid-1950s Reitsch was interviewed on film and talked about her wartime flight tests of the Fa 61, Me 262 and Me 163. In 1959 she was invited to India by prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru to begin a gliding centre. In 1961 Reitsch was invited to the White House by President John F. Kennedy. From 1962 to 1966 she lived in Ghana where she founded the first black African national gliding school.
