Dear Editor:

I am writing in regard to an "Open Letter" recently sent by Rabbi Joshua Hammerman, see enclosed. In his letter the Rabbi calls for the excommunication of Bernard Madoff.

Excommunication, as the Rabbi states in his letter is an extreme and rare occurrence in Judaism. The basis for the Rabbi's call is Madoff's fraud and theft, against fellow Jews.

Interestingly The Rabbi makes absolutely no mention, as a basis of his request for Madoff's excommunication, Madoff's theft and fraud against non Jews. His only concern is potential anti-Semitic backlash

I call your attention to the second enclosure, a list recently published that details Madoff's victims.

We see in the Rabbi's letter a clear example of none other than Jewish racism, as outlined in the Talmud, for which I would ask Jewish Leaders a simple question, "Do you not believe that Madoff's crimes against gentiles are as horrific as they are against Jews?"

I also call attention to the Talmud itself:

Baba Mezia 24a: Jews May Steal from Non-Jews. If a Jew finds an object lost by a Gentile ("heathen") it does not have to be returned. (Affirmed also in Baba Kamma 113b).

Recently there has been a flood of news articles in which Jewish leaders have expressed concerns regarding anti-Semitism as a result of the Madoff scandal.

I for one wish to express my concern and outrage for what appears to be a clear double standard, outrage when a Jewish money changer rips off his own, but silence with regard to his non Jewish victims. In a time of deep economic crisis in America, there should be NO concern for whether one is Jewish as a determination of how severe this type of theft is, either we are all Americans or we not. This is a fundamental question that Rabbi Hammerman's letter clearly answers it seems.

After 911, Muslim Leaders were chastised for not sufficiently decrying terrorism in their midst. I now call for Jewish leaders to decry economic terrorism in their midst.

In the interest of free speech and open dialog, I would hope this letter makes it way to your opinion page and is answered with an intellectually honest reply free from emotionally charged over simplifications and name calling. I doubt however it will make its way from the editor's (censor's desk).

Sincerely,

Christopher Krebs
General Chairman

OFFICE OF THE PARTY CHAIRMAN

NATIONAL SOCIALIST AMERICAN LABOR PARTY

CHAIRMAN KREBS REFLECTS ON 2008

An interview with Kurt Williams, NSALP Outreach Director

I heard someone ask onetime, I wonder who is a Nazi, I smiled and replied, oh, you would be surprised.....

People's Observer

Chairman, how do you rate 2008 for the Nation and for the NSALP:

(Chairman Krebs)

2008, for the Nation I think saw the chickens all come home to roost for America and for the policies of the Plutocracy of the Democrats and Republicans. The War in Iraq is no closer to an end than it was when it started, the President is leaving office with shoes being thrown at him, a far cry from being welcomed as a liberator as he predicted, and our economy is on the same footing as Weimar Germany. Our money is near worthless, our Debt is so high that perhaps it will be paid when the first colonists arrive on the moon, people continue to lose their jobs and homes, but our plutocratic government run by special interests bail out the banks and corporations that made the mess. Obama's election, while it bothers many, I think will be the weight that finally tips the scales. Just wait until he tries to Play Mugabe here.

As for the Party, we have exceeded all expectations. We have accomplished in less than a year what we thought we would do in two years.

People's Observer

Can you highlight a few major accomplishments?

(Chairman Krebs)

Our Membership has grown beyond expectation and it has happened the way we want it to. We put our message out there, let people see what we are all about, have high standards and expectations and outstanding people, dedicated to America taking their Nation back and committed to American National Socialism have come in droves.

Activism, we have engaged in real activism, we have taken on the SPLC and stood up for Nationalists in the military, something very important to me with my background, we took the hypocrisy regarding the Madoff matter to the major media, and we continue to get ready for the 2010 election and the visitors to our web site and the requests for information have flooded us.

Regular everyday people have come to the NSALP because we are a political party. They want to hear about possible solutions to mortgages that are sky rocketing, jobs that are gone and will never return, a war that is illegal and benefits Israel and big oil.

The NSALP is the natural Party of the American Middle Class.

People's Observer

What is your major goal for 2009?

(Chairman Krebs)

To work hard to for Unity among true National Socialists. As long as we are perceived as a bunch of screaming fanatics or the lone wolf mentality continues, there will be NO National Socialist victory. There has to be a understanding among those who call themselves National Socialists that personality above the movement is unacceptable, and that National Socialism requires you to indeed be a part of something far far greater than yourself, it requires immense self sacrifices, maturity, and discipline. It is simply not for everyone. Anyone can hang up a Swastika Flag, I wish a lot more would, but it take a lot more to be an actual Loyal Party Member. In Germany for instance, the actual number of enrolled National Socialist Party Members from 1919 to 1945 was a mere fraction of the population.

People's Observer

Give our readers your thoughts on the recently released 25 Points of American National Socialism?

(Chairman Krebs)

I felt very strongly that we needed to embrace our lineage, but at the same time have them be uniquely American and reflect today's times and issues. Just as the NSDAP's 25 Points reflected the issues of their time. Some groups have merely changed a few words of the NSDAP's 25 Points. I didn't think this was good enough. Some of the terms were no longer relevant and our times require us to address the issues that are currently being talked about at every middle class kitchen table.

Additionally, National Socialism must always be evolving as it was in Germany. We must be a Party of ideas and viewpoint for our People and the Western World as opposed to the New Bolsheviks of the East. I see this as a goal for modern American National Socialism as opposed to fighting minor insignificant internal "Ma and Pa Kettle internal fights, which by the way is what the Zionists want us to do, it keeps us busy as they pick our pockets and send our young men and women off to fight their wars for their interests.

People's Observer

Will professional and personal development of NSALP Members continue to be a top priority in 2009?, you have personally donated funds for scholarships to assist NSALP members as well as other National Socialists who are not NSALP Members, you have also paid for GED Classes for Members>

(Chairman Krebs)

Absolutely....Yes. We are doing two things, building a movement and a Political Party. When you are doing this and the establishment is against you, you MUST have a solid foundation. Without a solid foundation, the structure will collapse. National Socialists are going to be held to far higher standards than any other political party just go out and display a swastika flag vs. a hammer & sickle and watch the response.

One of my goals is to see a National Socialist debating on CSPAN.

People's Observer:

How much time do you dedicate to the Party, given your work, and family commitments

(Chairman Krebs)

(Laughs out loud)

Do you really want t know.....More than I should

Like all other Party Members, I work, have a family, quite large, wife of 17 years, six children. I am very involved with my family and my work, but I am equally devoted to the development of the NSALP.

My day starts at 4:30 AM. I do about 3 hours of Party work in the morning before I start my regular day, such as responding to correspondence and e-mail and reviewing ideas presented by other Members.

I also spend another hour or so in the evenings doing the same, as well as about four to six hours on weekends.

Sundays are devoted to my family and Church. I might also add that most of my travel for the Party is to assist in development and setting up of new Districts or to assist Members who have encountered issues within their Church, Families, or work.

As to hobbies, I love to play games with my children or do anything with my children for that matter. I am, as you well know an avid reader and a lover of movies and music.

I heard someone ask onetime, I wonder who is a Nazi, I smiled and replied, oh, you would be surprised.....

People's Observer:

Thank you Chairman for your reflections on 2008-12-28

Chairman Krebs:

I want to wish all NSALP Members and all National Socialists a very Happy 2009... On to Victory

Currently, there are some National Socialist organizations that are frauds and playing Nazi in the USA. The NSALP is not one of them.....

10 Questions for John Taylor Bowles, 1st Person to run for President (2008) as a National Socialist Candidate

People's Observer:

Thank you Mr. Bowles for taking to do this interview with the NSALP's People's Observer.

People's Observer:

What made you decide to step up and step out and run for President in 2008 as a National Socialist in the year of Obama, Clinton, McCain, etc?

Mr. Bowles:

The decision to run was made in early 2005 when I had a conversation with William (Wild Bill) Hoff and we both decided to do it. He agreed to be the Vice-Presidential candidate. My instincts told me to hold off running until 2012; but, Wild Bill was in his early 70's and I didn't want to take a chance of him dying before 2012 and missing the opportunity. William Hoff unfortunately died only 8 hours after the campaign officially began on December 07, 2006, in a mysterious automobile accident. Matthew Ramsey later filled the position as the Vice-Presidential candidate.

In 2005 or 2006, we had no information that we would be running opposite America's first elected Negro president.

People's Observer:

How was your campaign received, were you able to make it on any State ballots? Who supported John Taylor Bowles.

Mr. Bowles:

The campaign was received very well by most White voters especially in the South and Upper Midwest. I was on the streets in small towns shaking hands with White voters along with my campaign staff and had very little opposition. Right before I was about to get on some state ballots I had a massive heart attack (July 2008) and had to pull out of the campaign. My support came from everyday White working class people.

People's Observer:

Give our readers your thoughts on the current state of National Socialism in America and what we must do to broaden its appeal, the NSALP takes the position that National Socialism must be a broad based political movement that addresses all issues, especially economic issues of the middle class and that above all zionist foreign interests must be removed from American policy consideration, what are your thoughts on National Socialist economic policy and broadening our base of support, especially given the poor showing of 3rd political parties in America historically?

Mr. Bowles:

Currently, there are some National Socialist organizations that are frauds and playing Nazi in the USA. The NSALP is not one of them. I agree that National Socialists need to address economic issues because White voters do vote with their pocketbooks. However, National Socialists must always keep priorities straight and remember that as National Socialists we believe in looking at things racially as a valid way of looking at things in life and have a constitutional right to do so. Most economic problems in America have a racial factor behind them. Third parties do accomplish quite a bit. Most major reforms in this country came from third parties and the two mainstream parties picked up their ideas and implemented them.

People's Observer:

As a follow up to the prior question, do you see the internal divisiveness and internal strife among National Socialists as problematic to the success of National Socialism as a viable political movement in America?

Mr. Bowles:

Heck yes. There seems to be a conflict between two groups of National Socialists in America: the look-at-me frauds with inexperienced leadership and the sneaky National Socialists who think a victory can be done by not using a swastika or mentioning Adolf Hitler. Both are dangerous.

People's Observer:

America is in a economic crisis that, we, the NSALP believe is actually worse than that of the Great Depression given our lack of manufacturing and our heavy influence of jewish/zionist and special interests. What do you see is the solution to BOTH the economic crisis and the influences we describe?

Mr. Bowles:

Greedy Wall Street Jewry combined with non-Whites in America is an equation for disaster. Once you remove those things that are causing the problem then good times will return. Most of all it will require a whole new way of thinking for White people. National Socialism was created by Adolf Hitler to keep White people focused and not bickering and fighting each other. The solution is for America to be a White Homeland with free enterprise and a strong constitutional government as the White Founding Fathers desired. National Socialism will be the IDEA that cements those ideas together and brings racial salvation and economic prosperity back.

People's Observer:

What message do you think was sent by the election of Obama and the election of a large number of liberal-socialists who are pro-gay, anti 2nd Amendment and above all anti-family?

Mr. Bowles:

First, I believe Obama won by fraud and the System turned-the-other-cheek to it. Second, Obama won because the Jews sabotaged George Bush and the economy to make Obama win. Third, the non-White vote is now having an impact on federal elections and Obama's victory was an example of it. Fourth, the Jews supported and backed nutcase McCain via the controlled media to make sure the Republicans lost the election. It was a combination of carefully manipulated factors that scored Obama his victory.

People's Observer:

Tell our readers about your new "Bowles and Hoff Project"?

Mr. Bowles:

The Bowles and Hoff Project was created as a National Socialist information website to educate new leaders into the pro-White leadership pipeline. We need to keep new blood coming in as the old blood dies off and/or is eradicated by the hostile System. Also, it serves the purpose to gauge and determine how much support is out there for National Socialism.

People's Observer:

How long have you been a National Socialist and what brought you to National Socialism, we ask this of everyone we interview as we and our readers enjoy this perspective?

Mr. Bowles:

I have been a National Socialist since 1974. I joined the NSWPP and helped in running their Baltimore headquarters/bookstore until the owner retired in 1977. In 1975, I was the campaign treasurer to the first National Socialist to win a primary election and enter an American general election. He received 12% of the vote.

I was drawn to National Socialism the same reason that it attracts most (not all) White males. I was raised by my mother and had no father growing up. Therefore, when a White male has no other male figure around him as he is growing up to learn from he then seeks out a male role model figure that teaches good masculine behavior. That was Adolf Hitler for me. Basically, White males without a father figure grow up with a part of their personality missing and most try to fix it. Joining a National Socialist organization is a good way to gain one's masculinity by being with other masculine males. The problem that most National Socialist organizations have in America is when the young White male gains his masculinity and heals himself - they leave the NS organization. It happens time and time again. I have never left the Idea because my wounds were too deep to heal and I need constant involvement to heal.

People's Observer:

Where does John Taylor Bowles see America and National Socialism in five years?

Mr. Bowles:

In detainment camps if we don't get on the ball and unite and fine-tune our message of salvation.

People's Observer:

Our last question....Will John Taylor Bowles be a National Socialist candidate for President again?

Mr. Bowles:

If White people finally have an urge to take this country back through the election process then they know where I'm at to run. National Socialists listen to what White people want. Not the other way around. In the meantime, it's best for all National Socialists to prepare for hard times along with the rest of the White population in America.

Election leaflet published by the National Socialist Party (October, 1926)

Our call goes out to you who earn your bread through honest work. If you don't want your children, and your children's children to be damned for all eternity as slaves of world capitalism, if you don't want to be made the protectors of Stock Exchange bandits and other blood suckers by your treacherous leaders, if you are on the contrary filled with a fanatical will for freedom, then join the ranks of the National Socialist Party.

Saint Obama or Another Uncle Tom?

From the desk of Identity editor, John Bean:

In the December issue of Identity we have stated that some right and nationalist commentators may be reading the situation wrongly when they believe that the massive support given to Barack Obama by young white American voters means that the United States is irrevocably destined to be subjected to multiracial rule.

The overwhelming majority of those liberal whites rarely mix with blacks beyond the campus gates of the colleges and universities, no more than their parents do who also voted for Obama and who mainly live in gated safe white areas, whether it is in multi-ethnic California or New York State.

Their vote was a protest against the policies of George W Bush and the economic meltdown with spiraling unemployment, and who can blame them? Fortunately for the Democrats they chose a candidate with charisma, intelligence and oratorical powers against which the 71-year-old war hero McCain's sole weapon was his patriotism. Yet he still picked up 55% of the white vote to Obama's 43%, plus 95% of the black vote and two thirds of Hispanic and Asian votes and 77% of Jewish votes.

Note also that in the traditional Southern States, which have the highest black population, the whites voted overwhelmingly for McCain, and with the exception of Virginia the States all remained Republican. Generally Obama did not play upon his 'blackness' (more on this later), but for those in the know the exceptional amount of time he spent in winning over Virginia showed that he was very much aware of it.

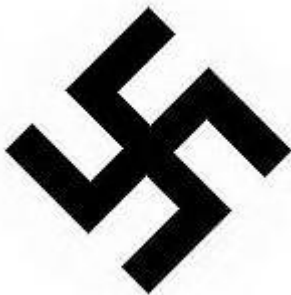

This was the former capital of the breakaway Southern Confederation and Obama knew that the symbolism of winning the State was in the same manner as Lincoln sending in black Federal troops when its Capital, Richmond, fell in June 1865.

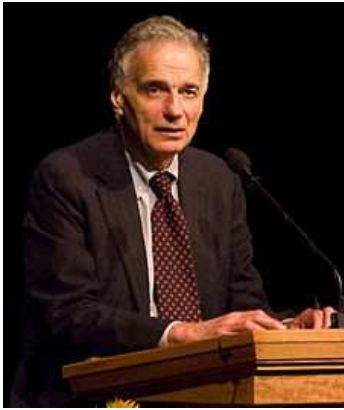

How effective Obama can be as a president can only be seen with the passage of the next twelve months or so. But when America's blacks in particular see that little has changed for them then he will no longer be regarded as Saint Obama but as another Uncle Tom. It really depends upon his backers, which include the remaining banks and finance houses of Wall Street. Much play was made of the two million or more small donations to Obama's war chest via his excellent internet campaign, but more than half his record $650 million funding came from big business.

His appointment of Rahm Emanuel as his chief of staff is interesting. Much of the global financial collapse can be traced to the granting of cheap mortgages to immigrants and poor blacks, with little chance of paying them back, by the federal mortgage firm Freddie Mac. Emanuel served on its board of directors when scandal was first brewing.

According to a complaint filed by the US Securities and Exchange Commission, Freddie Mac misreported profits by billions of dollars in order to deceive investors between the years 2000 and 2002, although Emanuel was not accused of being personally responsible for this. His father, Benjamin M. Emanuel, now living in Chicago, was an active member of "Irgun" or the Stern Gang fighting the then British rule in Palestine.

Use of the internet by the Obama team. Its mastery of the internet as a campaigning tool was key to his victory. To give a few examples, as well as sending out millions of e-mails to potential Democrat voters, in particular first time voters, his team brought in the co-founder of Facebook, Chris Hughes, and created its own social networking site. This attracted over 1.5 million members who organized themselves into separate activists' groups to ensure the election, if not the deification, of their idol.

Ralph Nader On Obama's Subservience To AIPAC

Open Letter To Barack Obama

Uri Avnery described Obama's appearance before AIPAC as one that "broke all records for obsequiousness and fawning"...adding that Obama "is prepared to sacrifice the most basic American interests (to Zionism)."

Between Hope And Reality

"Anti-Semitism today is the persecution of Palestinian society by the Israeli state."

By Ralph Nader

Dear Senator Obama:

In your nearly two-year presidential campaign, the words "hope and change," "change and hope" have been your trademark declarations. Yet there is an asymmetry between those objectives and your political character that succumbs to contrary centers of power that want not "hope and change" but the continuation of the power-entrenched status quo.

Far more than Senator McCain, you have received enormous, unprecedented contributions from corporate interests, Wall Street interests and, most interestingly, big corporate law firm attorneys. Never before has a Democratic nominee for President achieved this supremacy over his Republican counterpart. Why, apart from your unconditional vote for the $700 billion Wall Street bailout, are these large corporate interests investing so much in Senator Obama? Could it be that in your state Senate record, your U.S. Senate record and your presidential campaign record (favoring nuclear power, coal plants, offshore oil drilling, corporate subsidies including the 1872 Mining Act and avoiding any comprehensive program to crack down on the corporate crime wave and the bloated, wasteful military budget, for example) you have shown that you are their man?

To advance change and hope, the presidential persona requires character, courage, integrity-- not expediency, accommodation and short-range opportunism. Take, for example, your transformation from an articulate defender of Palestinian rights in Chicago before your run for the U.S. Senate to an acolyte, a dittoman for the hard-line AIPAC lobby, which bolsters the militaristic oppression, occupation, blockage, colonization and land-water seizures over the years of the Palestinian peoples and their shrunken territories in the West Bank and Gaza. Eric Alterman summarized numerous polls in a December 2007 issue of The Nation magazine showing that AIPAC policies are opposed by a majority of Jewish-Americans.

You know quite well that only when the U.S. Government supports the Israeli and Palestinian peace movements, that years ago worked out a detailed two-state solution (which is supported by a majority of Israelis and Palestinians), will there be a chance for a peaceful resolution of this 60-year plus conflict. Yet you align yourself with the hard-liners, so much so that in your infamous, demeaning speech to the AIPAC convention right after you gained the nomination of the Democratic Party, you supported an "undivided Jerusalem," and opposed negotiations with Hamas--the elected government in Gaza. Once again, you ignored the will of the Israeli people who, in a March 1, 2008 poll by the respected news- paper Haaretz, showed that 64% of Israelis favored "direct negotiations with Hamas." Siding with the AIPAC hard-liners is what one of the many leading Palestinians advocating dialogue and peace with the Israeli people was describing when he wrote "Anti-Semitism today is the persecution of Palestinian society by the Israeli state."

During your visit to Israel this summer, you scheduled a mere 45 minutes of your time for Palestinians with no news conference, and no visit to Palestinian refugee camps that would have focused the media on the brutalization of the Palestinians. Your trip supported the illegal, cruel blockade of Gaza in defiance of International law and the United Nations charter. You focused on southern Israeli casualties which during the past year have totaled one civilian casualty to every 400 Palestinian casualties on the Gaza side. Instead of a statesmanship that decried all violence and its replacement with acceptance of the Arab League's 2002 proposal to permit a viable Palestinian state within the 1967 borders in return for full economic and diplomatic relations between Arab countries and Israel, you played the role of a cheap politician, leaving the area and Palestinians with the feeling of much shock and little awe.

David Levy, a former Israeli peace negotiator, described your trip succinctly: "There was almost a willful display of indifference to the fact that there are two narratives here. This could serve him well as a candidate, but not as a President."

Palestinian American commentator, Ali Abunimah, noted that Obama did not utter a single criticism of Israel, "of its relentless settlement and wall construction, of the closures that make life unlivable for millions of Palestinians. ...Even the Bush administration recently criticized Israeli's use of cluster bombs against Lebanese civilians see [www.atfl.org for elaboration]. But Obama defended Israeli's assault on Lebanon as an exercise of its 'legitimate right to defend itself.'"

In numerous columns Gideon Levy, writing in Haaretz, strongly criticized the Israeli government's assault on civilians in Gaza, including attacks on "the heart of a crowded refugee camp... with horrible bloodshed" in early 2008.

Israeli writer and peace advocate--Uri Avnery--described Obama's appearance before AIPAC as one that "broke all records for obsequiousness and fawning, adding that Obama "is prepared to sacrifice the most basic American interests. After all, the US has a vital interest in achieving an Israeli-Palestinian peace that will allow it to find ways to the hearts of the Arab masses from Iraq to Morocco. Obama has harmed his image in the Muslim world and mortgaged his future -- if and when he is elected president," he said, adding, "Of one thing I am certain: Obama's declarations at the AIPAC conference are very, very bad for peace. And what is bad for peace is bad for Israel, bad for the world and bad for the Palestinian people."

A further illustration of your deficiency of character is the way you turned your back on the Muslim-Americans in this country. You refused to send surrogates to speak to voters at their events. Having visited numerous churches and synagogues, you refused to visit a single Mosque in America. Even George W. Bush visited the Grand Mosque in Washington D.C. after 9/11 to express proper sentiments of tolerance before a frightened major religious group of innocents.

Although the New York Times published a major article on June 24, 2008 titled "Muslim Voters Detect a Snub from Obama" (by Andrea Elliott), citing examples of your aversion to these Americans who come from all walks of life, who serve in the armed forces and who work to live the American dream. Three days earlier the International Herald Tribune published an article by Roger Cohen titled "Why Obama Should Visit a Mosque."

None of these comments and reports change your political bigotry against Muslim-Americans -- even though your father was a Muslim from Kenya.

Perhaps nothing illustrated your utter lack of political courage or even the mildest version of this trait than your surrendering to demands of the hard-liners to prohibit former President Jimmy Carter from speaking at the Democratic National Convention. This is a tradition for former presidents and one accorded in prime time to Bill Clinton this year.

Here was a President who negotiated peace between Israel and Egypt, but his recent book pressing the dominant Israeli superpower to avoid Apartheid of the Palestinians and make peace was all that it took to sideline him. Instead of an important address to the nation by Jimmy Carter on this critical international problem, he was relegated to a stroll across the stage to "tumultuous applause," following a showing of a film about the Carter Center's post-Katrina work. Shame on you, Barack Obama!

But then your shameful behavior has extended to many other areas of American life. (See the factual analysis by my running mate, Matt Gonzalez, on www.votener.org). You have turned your back on the 100-million poor Americans composed of poor whites, African-Americans, and Latinos. You always mention helping the "middle class" but you omit, repeatedly, mention of the "poor" in America.

Should you be elected President, it must be more than an unprecedented upward career move following a brilliantly unprincipled campaign that spoke "change" yet demonstrated actual obeisance to the concentration power of the "corporate supremacists." It must be about shifting the power from the few to the many. It must be a White House presided over by a black man who does not turn his back on the downtrodden here and abroad but challenges the forces of greed, dictatorial control of labor, consumers and taxpayers, and the militarization of foreign policy. It must be a White House that is transforming of American politics--opening it up to the public funding of elections (through voluntary approaches) -- and allowing smaller candidates to have a chance to be heard on debates and in the fullness of their now restricted civil liberties. Call it a competitive democracy.

Your presidential campaign again and again has demonstrated cowardly stands. "Hope" some say springs eternal." But not when "reality" consumes it daily.

Sincerely,
Ralph Nader

Welcome comrades and interested people to the website of the NSV- National Socialist Vanguard. We here are tired of the down putting, lies, back stabbing and traitors within the National Socialist movement who do nothing but hold our progress back, who think that picking and infighting is what being a National Socialist is all about, at first thought a number of sites come forward for an example and perhaps you know just which sites we are talking about, it is one thing to stand up and shout at people, it is another to achieve progress. Being a National Socialist is not about wearing an uniform and shouting and fighting people on the streets, it is much more than that, all the parties within this website are all true National Socialist parties who besides being currently active within there countries have proven there selves to be pure and true by the actions that they process and under take. Any parties who are interested in joining a worldwide united front please do get in contact with us via the Contact Us tab which can be found at the top right of all the pages.

The time for a new platform within National Socialism has dawned, gone are those days of back stabbing and plotting behind comrades backs and with that death comes a true path for all National Socialists, there is a new future for National Socialism, welcome to unity and strength, welcome to the NSV!

Our mission here at the NSV is to unite every true National Socialist party throughout the world, from Great Britain to Canada, to America to Australia to Japan and far, far beyond. We agree 100% with Aryan unity and in all National Socialists standing together as one to face and fight the real problems that face us as a population, problems such as freedom of speech being taken away, heritages being raped and destroyed, traditional ways being forgotten, immigration, political lies and much, much more. It might sound as though this is a political movement on its own and in a way it is but the NSV is not a party based in just one country for the greater good of one nation, it is a universal party for all Aryans.

Our mission is also to recreate and promote National Socialism to all peoples, showing National Socialism's true colors, not the colors that the media has painted for over 60 years but the colors that to many people have been forgotten if ever taught at all. The colors of love, understanding, strength, unity, survival, independence and complete well being, countries that look after each other and people within those countries who look out and care for each other, families that help each other and people who are all together as one. We set out to destroy the back stabbing and lies that not only the media enjoys spreading but also the negative ways that are found in some National Socialist parties throughout the world who claim to be true when in fact they are not, to weed out the weak and to keep the strong, as it is the strong and only the strong who survive in this world and in the 21st Century this will in time become key to life across this world. So, look around this website and in turn we hope that you will besides understanding what we will achieve will also feel the desire to join us, together we can make this world a better place to live in!

The NSV may be contacted through the NSV website.

From Der Spiegel in Germany

NEO-NAZIS

Far Right Is Well Established in Bavaria

By *Philipp Wittrock*

Right-wing extremism is widely perceived as a problem confined to eastern Germany. Yet Saturday's knife attack on the police chief of Passau shows it is well established in Bavaria too. The NPD party has its biggest membership there and the far-right scene feels so safe that some sympathizers have already been making fun of the attack.

The name of the establishment sounds harmless. The guests are anything but.

"Traudl's Café-Stübchen" (Traudl's Little Café Room) is a popular meeting place for neo-Nazis in the small Bavarian town of Fürstzell.

The regulars meet to talk about German nationhood, to celebrate the founding of the German Reich or to debate issues such as how Germans were victims of "Allied bombing terror" during World War II or the injustices that befell the Germans evicted from Eastern Europe after 1945.

Right-wing extremists during a gathering in Wunsiedel, Bavaria, to commemorate Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's deputy.

Locals are well aware of the type of people who come here. They boycott the cafe and have put up a sign opposite it that reads "No Room for Extremism." The place is no longer open to the public.

On July 26, Traudl's Café once again became a rallying point for neo-Nazis. Members of the National Democratic Party (NPD) and far-right sympathizers met there for a wake after attending the funeral of Friedhelm Busse, a prominent old Nazi.

Many of their fellow mourners chose not to attend the wake, though, and instead headed for the center of Passau, where several dozen neo-Nazis taunted passers-by and hurled racist insults at one woman.

Alois Mannichl was there too on that Saturday afternoon. Video footage shows how the police chief of Passau confronted the aggressive neo-Nazis. It wasn't the first time. Mannichl is regarded as a committed enemy of the violent far-right scene.

It's possible that his actions on that day almost cost him his life last Saturday evening, when a skinhead walked up to his house in Fürstzell, rang the bell, and rammed a knife into his stomach, missing his heart by just two centimeters.

Mannichl survived after an emergency operation and was able to describe his assailant. Police say it's likely that neo-Nazis were taking revenge on Mannichl, who lives just a few hundred meters from Traudl's Café.

'Greetings From the National Resistance Movement'

"You won't be trampling on the graves of our comrades any more," the attacker reportedly said. "Greetings from the national resistance movement."

Those words have led investigators to believe that there may be a link to Mannichl's actions on the day of Busse's funeral. During the ceremony, a leading NPD member, Thomas Wulff, draped a Nazi war flag bearing the swastika -- outlawed in Germany as an unconstitutional symbol -- on Busse's coffin. Authorities later ordered the grave to be re-opened and the flag to be removed.

The local NPD association had repeatedly criticized Mannichl in recent months for this action. They accused him of provoking them and inciting "violence against nationalists."

Given that someone possibly from the far-right scene almost killed the police chief, the statement from the Passau NPD was conspicuously brief. "The regional association utterly condemns this cowardly act and will help the authorities to find the perpetrator," it said in a statement published on its Web site.

Others have been less cautious in their comments: On one neo-Nazi Web forum, a blogger describes Mannichl as "another one of these wannabe Wiesenthals." "How nice that he's getting to taste the fruits of his labor," he says. Someone in another forum says: "Does the sod want sympathy now? It's highly doubtful that the assailant was a nationalist."

New Dimension of Far-Right Violence

Bavaria's interior minister, Joachim Herrmann, said the assault showed that far-right violence had reached a new level. "This attack on an individual prominent representative of the state is new," Herrmann told SPIEGEL ONLINE. "We must take this escalation of violence very seriously." Bavarian authorities had recently registered an increase in far-right activity, said Herrmann.

Bavaria has a well-established neo-Nazi scene. The domestic intelligence service estimates that there are around 1,100 violent neo-Nazis in Bavaria and around 10,000 in Germany. In Passau alone, the number of far-right crimes doubled to 83 this year compared with 2007.

Some areas, especially in the northern Bavarian region of Franconia, are plagued by neo-Nazis. In the town of Gräfenberg, they have been staging rallies every month for the past two years in protest at a decision by the town council to prevent them from gathering at a memorial to hail Germany's war dead.

Another town regularly visited by neo-Nazis is Wunsiedel, where Hitler's deputy Rudolf Hess is buried. Far-right groups keep applying for permission to hold "memorial marches" around August 17, the day of his death. In 2004 thousands of neo-Nazis from all over Europe came to Wunsiedel. The town has since forbidden marches but neo-Nazis keep seeking alternative locations nearby.

The NPD has more members in Bavaria than in any other region, but the party is divided there. The youth organization (Junge Nationaldemokraten, JN) disagrees with Bavaria's regional NPD leader Ralf Ollert. At this year's regional party conference Ollert was re-elected but about a third of delegates demonstratively walked out of the hall afterwards. The head of the JN even quit the NPD.

The radical youth wing of the party blames Ollert for the NPD's poor showing in the September 2008 regional election. It got just 1.2 percent, far short of the 3 percent result the leadership had been aiming for and well below the 5 percent threshold needed to get into the Bavarian state parliament.

Neo-Nazis not connected with the party have also criticized Ollert's "wishy-washy" strategy. Nevertheless, the NPD has deep roots in Bavaria. The party's nationwide chairman, Udo Voigt, lives there, as does one of his deputies, Sascha Roosmüller. The NPD held its national party conference in the Bavarian city of Bamberg. And the party's entire leadership attended a May Day rally in Nuremberg this year.

The NPD reportedly dominates the far-right scene in and around Passau. Traudl's Café, media reports say, was purchased by an NPD supporter involved in the far-right scene across Europe.

Hitler was the perfect boss: Former maid breaks her silence on the 'charming' dictator

- By Allan Hall

History has condemned him as the megalomaniac who brought death and misery to millions.

But for one woman, the name Adolf Hitler evokes a smile not a shudder.

She is Rosa Mitterer, who worked as a maid for the Fuhrer at his mountain retreat in Bavaria in the 1930s.

Rosa is 91 and until now has kept a vow of silence about her experiences. She has chosen to break it after realising she is the last survivor of the circle who served the tyrant in the years before he launched the Second World War.

91-year-old Rosa Mitterer is the sole survivor of those who served Adolf Hitler in the years before the Second World War

And her verdict on her former master: 'He was a charming man, someone who was only ever nice to me, a great boss to work for. You can say what you like, but he was a good man to us.'

Rosa's remembrances of life at the court of the tyrant make gripping reading. She saw leading Nazis come and go. Himmler, the evil party secretary; Bormann, whom she described as a 'dirty pig'; and the club-footed, sexually-obsessed propaganda minister Goebbels.

Rosa went into Hitler's service at the age of 15 in 1932 when she was Rosa Krautenbacher. Her sister Anni had worked as a cook at Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat since the late 1920s.

'She said he needed a housemaid and I would fit the bill,' Rosa recalled. 'I remember so clearly the first day I spoke to him in the kitchen. I said I was Anni's sister and that made him smile, because Anni was his favourite. I only ever knew Hitler as a kindly man who was good to me.'

His former housekeeper was Geli Raubal, with whom it was rumoured he had a love affair. 'She shot herself in September 1931 and I was told as soon as I went to work for him that he was not to be approached on the anniversary of that day,' said Rosa.

'My sister and I shared a room that was directly over Hitler's. We could hear him crying.'

For a long time she and Anni were the only servants in the home, known as Berghof.

Recalling her first direct request from her master, she said she was drying some porcelain cups when he came down the stairs.

'Hello,' he said softly. 'Sorry to trouble you, but could you make me some coffee and bring some gingerbread biscuits to my study?'

Coming into such close proximity to Hitler made her feel faint, she said, but she soon became accustomed to life at Berghof.

'I rose at 6am every day and put on a red-green dirndl with a white apron. My first task was to feed his dogs - he had three German shepherds at the beginning called Wolf, Muck and Blondi.

Charmer: Adolf Hitler, 'the perfect boss'

'In those days, Hitler slept in his study. In it was an iron bed, one wardrobe, one table, two chairs and a shoebox. It was very modestly furnished. Beside the bed hung a picture of his mother.'

She added: 'I didn't have to be a Nazi party member or anything. After a while I relaxed a bit. Apparently it was Hitler's orders that Anni and I be taken to church every Sunday because he thought this would be "good for us".'

'Another time he came into the kitchen, saw me and said, "Ahh, I see our little one has grown a little plumper!".'

Part of her duties involved sorting out the fan letters and presents that were delivered in their thousands to the house.

'There were cigars, jars of jam, flowers, pictures,' she recalled. 'We gave most of them away to poorer peasant families nearby on Hitler's orders.'

Her time in service also allowed her to see at close quarters the woman Hitler kept secret from his people throughout his rule - Eva Braun. 'She was not so pretty close up,' Rosa recalled.

'Himmler was always there too, thinner than what he looked like in the photos, and Goebbels.

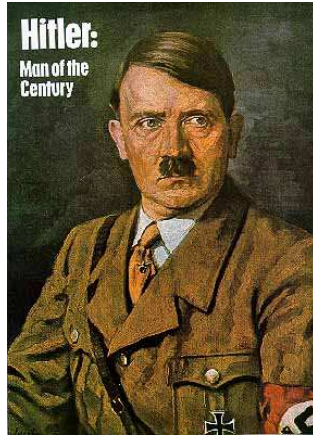

'And Bormann, I didn't like him at all. He was a dirty pig.' By the end of 1934, the house was surrounded by minefields and SS checkpoints. Rosa said. 'I felt like a prisoner instead of an employee.'

In 1935 she fell in love with local businessman Josef Amorts and handed in her notice. She was told she could leave immediately..

'I only met Hitler once more, on December 10, 1936, when Anni married Herbert Doehring, manager of the Berghof. He came to the wedding and was nice to me, saying he missed me.'

Rosa married in 1939 and had three daughters. She later remarried. A great-grandmother, she now lives in Munich. After the war she had to confront the reality of the man for whom she had worked so willingly. And in particular the reality of the Holocaust.

'That he had ordered such terrible things, I just couldn't believe it,' she said. 'Even now, I prefer to remember the charming facets of his personality.'

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS NATIONAL SOCIALIST AMERICAN LABOR PARTY

1. Are you an actual Federal/State Political Party and may I register as a Member at my local Registrar of Voters?

Not officially yet. We are still in organization; however, so far we have organized several State Districts, which are our equivalent to State Parties.

It is our goal to begin submission of documents so our Members may begin officially registering as Members of the National Socialist American Labor Party (NSALP) at their various Registrar of Voters.

2. Are you Nazis/Neo-Nazis?

Interesting question. We do not consider ourselves neo-anything. We are National Socialists. Our Political philosophy and ideas, mainly economic and foreign and domestic policy are based on National Socialism. If you want to know more, please contact us or attend one of our various discussions or log on to WWW.NSALP.ORG.

3. Why do you use the swastika? Isn't it a symbol of hate?

The Swastika is actually an ancient religious symbol. The Buddhists, have used it for centuries for instance. It is also a symbol of luck and good fortune and has also been used by Native Americans and by the U.S. Army in World War I. We use it as our symbol for those reasons. Other Parties use other symbols such as animals, like asses and elephants, which are most fitting given the performance of those political parties in government.

4. Are you a Hate Group or a White Power Militia type Group?

NO, the NSALP is neither a hate Group or a Militia Organization. We are absolutely opposed and do not tolerate violence. The NSALP is NOT para-military and our members do not wear uniforms at our events. However at some Special Party Events, some Party Members may wear approved Party Tunics for Special Presentations.

NATIONAL SOCIALIST ICON OF THE MONTH OTTO ERNST REMER

Generalmajor Otto-Ernst Remer shown in retirement and in uniform in 1944

Remer was an American prisoner of war until 1947. During this period, the commander of his prison camp, an officer of the US First Infantry Division, said: "Of the 87 German Generals in this Camp, General Remer is the only one whom I respect as courageous and honorable."

Major Remer was chosen to command the Wachbattalion Großdeutschland a unit which performed public and security duties in Berlin. During this time, Remer and his men successfully stopped the July 20 plot to seize control of the German government after the assassination attempt on Adolf Hitler. Remer had no regrets about his role in crushing the plot and ended the war as a Generalmajor.

Remer's Socialist Reich Party, which he had co-founded in 1950, was banned in 1952 after it had gathered about 360,000 supporters in Lower Saxony, and won 16 seats in the state parliament. The Socialist Reich Party also won 8 seats in the Bremen state parliament.

In 1994, Remer went into exile in Spain in an effort to avoid facing charges for his controversial public statements regarding the Holocaust. Remer was an avid supporter of the studies conducted by key individuals such as Fred Leuchter and Germar Rudolf.

The high court of Spain ruled against appeals made by the German government to extradite Remer, claiming that he had not committed any crime. Later living in Egypt and Syria, Remer remained a wanted man in Germany until his death in 1997 at 85.

ABOUT THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST AMERICAN LABOR PARTY

The National Socialist Labor Party (NSALP) is an orthodox National Socialist Political Party designed to move National Socialism into the active political process.

The NSALP IS NOT A HATE GROUP OR WHITE POWER MILITIA TYPE ENTITY, NOR ARE WE NEO-NAZIS. WE ARE NATIONAL SOCIALISTS. The NSALP is a National Socialist Political Party based on political, economic, and social theory of National Socialism. We reject and condemn all violence and demand the strictest code of National Socialist conduct and ethics from our membership. Likewise we support and encourage the intellectual growth and development of our members and as a Party will develop Programs to assist in this.

We take pride in honest thought provoking discussion on issues without profanity, personal attacks and language that demeans National Socialism. We do not associate ourselves with many who call themselves "National Socialists", and who have public events and engage in loud, disrespectful profane language and conduct that would be an embarrassment to real National Socialism, National Socialists and our founder.

The National Socialist American Labor Party, (NSALP) is based on original concepts, economic and social, and writings of National Socialism, thus we are an orthodox National Socialist Political Party. We require our members to be thinkers and to actively participate and to read, discuss, and participate in the development of National Socialist political positions.

We are a Labor Party of the Middle Class, we are also a political party, and thus we have no uniform. However on November 9, April 20, and January 30, our Members may wear traditional uniforms at Party Congress, Party Day, and at Cultural Events. Our National Socialist Youth Corps for young boys and girls does have uniforms.

A Member Reply:

In terms of "change image"...-What image do we have? -Or, what image does National Socialism have? Is it one of truth? Perhaps this is where we should begin. Where media can be controlled, influenced, overtly or insidiously, on behalf of "the chosen," National Socialism has been successfully falsified, defamed, demonized...and everything else ghoulishly ghastly...right on down the line. It has been done expertly, of course.

Psy-op. Brainwash. Is it time for National Socialists to "rise to the occasion"? Sans a brainwash agenda, the dust of facts can settle as it may... Perhaps it is time for a counter psy-op program...and propaganda operations that showcase National Socialism? -A propaganda program in a (National Socialist) public interest will have impact beyond. I believe it can be magnetic!

Not only is the technology in place for such... It is "off the shelf" and reasonable in cost. The internet, as an easily accessible and inexpensive "broadcast media" alternative would be an ideal staging field of operation. And, of course, this is why our enemy wishes to censor it...and us.

I mention Speer again because he understood the tools to influence the mind's perception.

Speer did not deceive...did not need to change any facts or data. He arranged his existing, available data to produce structure (visual) impact for the desired outcome, in engineered physical results and human psychological effect.

Facts need not "change" (i.e., no deception, etc) to achieve results. Arrangement, distribution utilization of what is available can produce effective structure results, including, or specifically, the psychological results needed.

Facts, data, information are the available material of psy-op building to produce our desired outcome.
